NASA: Hidden Facts?

By Paul Dale Roberts, The HPI Esoteric Detective

Before I start talking about NASA, I want to mention this email I received.

"Hi my name is Jade. I was visiting the HOPE Columbine Library and I saw 3 entities that looked like high school kids. I think I saw 3 ghostly victims of the Columbine High School Massacre. What was even weirder is after I left, my car radio was playing My Old School by Steely Dan. This is the first time, I ever heard of this song. Was I getting some kind of message, I would like to know your thoughts on this matter?"

My answer: You may be seeing residual energy from that fateful day. Until I can fully investigate the massacre site, I cannot give you a definite answer on what you may have seen. But, I do know one thing, god bless the souls of the victims that lost their lives on that fateful day. In their honor, I will play the song that you heard, it can be heard here:

http://s0.ilike.com/play#Steely+Dan:My+Old+School:11472:s12907.11971.1238940.1.2.109%2Cstd\_8d687ec817e443419a086d44db66dccc

I am still not ready to talk about NASA, right now I want to talk about the vampire craze that has swept our nation. With Vampire Diaries, True Blood and Twilight: New Moon, the vampire fascination has moved to the next level of fandom. I am seeing vampires everywhere. I can pull out a Slave Labor comic book and read about Pinocchio: Vampire Slayer. I know it sounds incredible, but our fairy tale hero has an endless supply of wooden stakes due to his lie-powered nose! When Nasolungo village becomes overrun by vampires and Gepetto is murdered by a fanger, then Pinocchio starts to kick some vampire butt! Read the review in Wizard Oct 2009 #216!

More Vampires.

I have been to New Orleans and attended the 1982 Mardi Gras. New Orleans is reputed to have everything from zombies to Voodoo shamans to vampires to ghosts and the French Quarter has the ambiance of lurking horror. Now the movie The Vampire's Assistant adds to the fuel of New Orleans legend. Check out the review in Fangoria #288 and also read the reviews on The Box and Saw VI! Fangoria has the horror scene completely covered!

But, you know what? I am not going to try and scare you with vampire mythos, I am going to scare you with something else. Many former government employees say that NASA is hiding something from the citizens of the USA. Just ask former NASA consultant Richard C. Hoagland. Good ol' Richard is the man who made a lot of noise about the Face on Mars. With a second swing by picture of the Face, we discovered that it was a landmark anomaly on Mars and nothing more. Or did NASA cover up the Face with a doctored photo? Hmmmm.

There are so many photographs of the Moon and of Mars that show strange surface anomalies. What is The Shard? This is an anomalous vertical lunar feature with elaborate internal geometric detail. In close proximity of The Shard we have the Tower/Cube, another strange lunar structure. When a 2nd picture was taken of the Tower/Cube, it was still there, proving that it is a real Moon object and not a captured photographic defect. I mean isn't that the same thing we paranormal investigators do? We take a 2nd photo to validate the first photo as something that could be paranormal? Now we have a 2nd photo of the very same structure that was seen in the first photo.

There are so many anomalies on the Moon and Mars surfaces. What is the twisted paperclip type of anomaly that was taken by cameras on Apollo 10? If you think that is incredible, then what is the Castle photo, where an anomaly is suspended 9 miles above the lunar surface? How come NASA doesn't investigate these strange anomalies? No wonder Richard C. Hoagland's panties are in a twist. NASA ignores all of his lectures, comments and accusations.

One after another these photos come in, there is even some landscape on the Moon that looks similar to Los Angeles from the air, and the photo is tagged as 'LA'. The Zond 3 Tower actually protrudes out from the side of the Moon. The protrusion looks exaggerated, but the protrusion exists. The Mare Crisium Spire, the Sphinx on Mars, the Glass Tunnels of Barsoom, the Datahead seen in a photograph of the Shorty Crater, the list goes on and on. The anomalies keep showing up in NASA photographs and NASA keeps ignoring the photographs or tries to explain away the anomalies as tricks of shadow and light. The Datahead actually looks like a robotic artificial head laying on the Moon's surface. Let's not forget to mention the heavily eroded but still remarkable symmetries of the D&M pyramid on Mars. Cydonia almost looks like the replica of the Egypt pyramid positions in Egypt or the star coordinates of the Orion belt. Is this all a coincidence or is there some type of extraterrestrial intervention that has occurred on our Moon and on Mars?

How can I trust NASA anyway, back in the 60s former Nazi SS officers worked in NASA and NASA is known to be haven for Freemasons. How can we forget how after former President Lyndon Johnson took the oath of office after the Kennedy assassination that Congressman Albert Thomas winked at him? Why would he wink at Johnson, after a traumatic change of office has just occurred? Who was Thomas? Oh yes, he was the guy who held the purse strings in Congress for NASA funding. His legacy has most likely carried on to the present time and that is why when segmented crinoids like the El Capitan Martian fossil was discovered, NASA whisked this possible fossil away and grinded it up into dust!

I really want to know what the Glass Tunnels of Barsoom are. Could extraterrestrials have used these tunnels for traveling and movement going from Point A to Point B?

President John F. Kennedy wanted an open administration. Perhaps when Kennedy wanted disclosure on possible ET artifacts and wanted to merge space exploration with Russia, it was time for Kennedy to be silenced. In one of Kennedy's speeches regarding NASA, he mentioned 'excessive and unwarranted concealment' and how he needed help from the press to expose these atrocities. Is this one of the possible reasons for Kennedy's assassination? Could Congressman Albert Thomas be behind Kennedy's death?

There are so many unanswered questions. There is one thing I do know. There appears to be anomalies on the surface of the Moon and Mars. Can we please look into the anomalies? NASA, what are you waiting for? NASA if you know the answers, it is time for disclosure....NOW!!

HAUNTED CATSKILL MOUNTAINS

Paul Dale Roberts, HPI's Esoteric Detective

Halo Paranormal Investigations

jazmaonline.boards.net/

SHADOW DART CREATURES

It almost seems that every mountain has a supernatural aura about it. Mountains throughout the world appear to be a magnet for ghost activity, cryptids, UFOs and UAPs. Catskill Mountains is no exception. I first heard stories from my uncle George Roberts who enjoyed hunting deer in the Catskill Mountains. Sitting around a campfire with my uncle, I would listen to his stories about Shadow Dart Creatures that he witnessed in the Catskill Mountains. Shadow Dart Creatures are similar to Shadow People, except they come in all shapes. George would describe them as being able to "dart" around from tree to tree and will peek at you from behind a tree. George says that they move very quickly, and you can catch them with your peripheral vision. Of all the places that George has hunted at, he has only experienced the Shadow Dart Creatures in the Catskill Mountains. George said he had his campfire all set up and it was dusk. George saw 3 Shadow Dart Creatures moving about in the trees. Darting from one tree to another. One shadow creature was in the shape of a spider with many legs, the other in the shape of a cat, while another was in the shape of a human with a hump on its back.

The shadowy creatures moved about through the trees and then would peek at him. George had enough and shot a round from his rifle into the air. The shadow creatures departed. George related it to his hunting buddy that joined him later in that evening. George's hunting buddy Michael Tilhouse from Sullivan County, NY was very familiar with the shadow creatures and referred them as Shadow Dart Creatures because of the way they dart around. Michael believed they were ghosts. When I learned about the creatures from my uncle, I automatically thought they could be some kind of interdimensional creatures that go from their reality to our reality via a portal. Besides these shadow creatures, there are other things that I consider creepy and it's all happening in the Catskill Mountains. Let's look at the other paranormal phenomena happening at the Catskill Mountains.

NATIVE AMERICAN LEGENDS

The Esopus Tribe of the Lenape (Delaware) Native Americans of the Catskill Mountains have many stories and legends. There is the Catskill Witch. This figure was revered and feared. She was believed to be responsible for regulating the weather in the Hudson Valley, and would punish those who showed her disrespect with floods, lightning, and harsh storms. She was known to take on various forms, including a bear or deer, and lead hunters astray. Then you have the Giant Monster. Legend has it that the Catskill Mountains was once the home of a massive, human-eating monster until the Great Spirit intervened and turned it to stone. The petrified monster's bones formed the new mountain, and its eyes became two lakes near the summit. Then we have the Big Indian. The hamlet of Big Indian in the Catskills is named after Winnisook, a Munsee man of the Lenape Nation known for his great height and strength. Winnisook was also involved in a love triangle and a livestock raid. Rip Van Winkle was not a story from Native Americans, but a story from author Washington Irving. It's a story about a kind-hearted, but lazy man who lived in a Dutch town near the Catskill Mountains. He is known for his long nap in the mountains, waking up 20 years later to a drastically changed world. This story almost sounds like an alien abduction story from modern-day accounts of alleged UFO abductees. There are the "little men," lost time, the thunder-sound (coming from the other side of the mountain) and then waking up 20 years later. Some historical biblical stories of possible abductions are similar to the Rip Van Winkle story. Abductees from ancient times recorded that many years have passed when they were returned to Earth. Was Washington Irving influenced by a real-life event that may have happened at the Catskill Mountains? You have to wonder.

DEVIL'S KITCHEN

This area, known for its hiking and climbing, also has a reputation for having haunted campgrounds and mysterious ghost lights. Ghost Lights are unexplained lights, sometimes described as "ghost lights" or "spook lights," that have been reported in and around Devil's Kitchen, particularly at night. Many people believe these ghost lights are victims that have lost their lives in the mountains. Some have reported hearing disembodied voices in the area. In addition to the voices, other strange and unexplained sounds have been reported. Some hikers have heard the sounds of a baby crying and when they went to investigate, there was no baby around. Some theorize that the paranormal activity is linked to the spirits of Native Americans who used the area for their family feasting or individuals who died there due to accidents or other unfortunate circumstances. The Devil's Kitchen's history of accidents and fatalities has contributed to its reputation as a haunted location, particularly for those who hike in the area.

OLD INNS AND HOTELS

Abandoned or historic inns and hotels in the Catskills are rumored to be haunted, with stories of former residents or guests lingering. Three haunted hotels at the Catskill Mountains are: Shandaken Inn, a guest witnessed a small native American girl wandering the hallway of the Inn. At Shanley Hotel a man in shorts and backpack was seen walking through a wall and vanishing. Then at the Pine Hill Arms Hotel an old lady in a rocking chair was seen in one of the rooms and then disappeared. A red-haired woman that was nude and in the fetal position was seen at an ancient cemetery. The forgotten ruins and ancient cemeteries have many restless spirits say locals. The region's history, with tragic events and past residents, contributes to the sense of a haunting.

NOTABLE GHOSTS OF THE CATSKILL MOUNTAINS

In Hudson, Maggie Houghtaling, who was hanged for a crime she was later cleared of, is said to haunt the "Register-Star" building. Peter Hallenbeck's ghost in Greenport, who was murdered in his home, is said to linger. At Claverack Creek the ghost of a young Native American girl is said to haunt this creek, where she drowned.

UFOS

Whitley Strieber is known for writing about his alien abduction experiences in a cabin in upstate New York, specifically in the Hudson Valley. The cabin is very near the Catskill Mountains. Hudson Valley is known for the 1984 Hudson Valley UFO Sightings. This 1984 event was investigated by Project Bluebook. UFOs or UAPs have been seen in the Hudson Valley and flying towards the Catskill Mountains. Many UFOlogists believe that Hudson Valley falls on a leyline.

CRYPTIDS

Catskill Mountains has its cryptids. You have the Numley, a creature described as a large, bipedal, hairless creature with a wide grinning mouth and large eyes, often linked to campfires in the Adirondack region. Then you have Devil Spiders that have been reported in the Catskills and Appalachian region, devil spiders are often described as large, hairy spiders, sometimes associated with malevolent supernatural forces. The Inbreds are not cryptids, but it is rumored that the Catskill Mountains has a hidden group of people that are inbreds or considered degenerate living in the forests. Catskill Mountains is also known for sightings of the Sasquatch. A notable Sasquatch in the Catskill Mountains is "Big Dave". Big Dave is about 10 feet tall, very muscular and has reddish head hair, while the rest of his body is covered in brown fur.

Astronauts Witness High Strangeness

Paul Dale Roberts, HPI's Esoteric Detective

Halo Paranormal Investigations

jazmaonline.boards.net/

When I was in Kindergarten, the teacher was asking all of the students..."what do you want to be when you grow up?" My answer was "astronaut". When I was a little boy, I was obsessed with stories of space travel and my hero at the time was Alan Shepard. Alan Shepard was a U.S. Navy test pilot, he became the first American in space and the second person overall on May 5, 1961. He piloted the Mercury spacecraft Freedom 7 on a 15-minute suborbital flight. His flight was a major triumph for NASA and helped restore faith in the U.S. space program after the Soviet success. After his dramatic recovery, he was celebrated as a national hero, with ticker-tape parades and awards. Shepard was one of the "Mercury Seven," the first group of American astronauts selected for Project Mercury. My dream of being an astronaut never came to fruition, but my other dream jobs I was able to accomplish. When I became a Fortean Investigator, I was always intrigued when I heard that various astronauts were encountering high strangeness in space. NASA always tries to find an easy solution or answer to these strange encounters. This is something I would expect NASA to do, and the real answers are locked away in some government vault. My time in the US Army (MI) Military Intelligence showed me that MI was still investigating the UFO phenomena in 1981. Here is a list of strange encounters that our astronauts have witnessed. There is even a few cosmonaut stories included with this list.

While NASA does not officially endorse or confirm paranormal incidents, some astronauts have reported experiences in space that have been interpreted as such.

SPACE MUSIC

The incident that was called: "Apollo 10 "Space Music". Strange whistling sounds, described as "outer-space-type music," were heard by Apollo 10 astronauts during their orbit of the far side of the Moon. Though some believed it was extraterrestrial in nature, the sound was later attributed to radio interference. So, NASA says....

UNUSUAL SIGHTINGS

BEER CAN UFO

James McDivitt's "Beer Can" UFO was seen during the Gemini 4 mission. James McDivitt reportedly saw and photographed an object outside the spacecraft that he couldn't identify. The object looked like a "beer can with a smooth pencil-like wing sticking out". The object disappeared due to sunlight glare.

SHINY OBJECT UFO

Apollo 12 astronaut Alan Bean reportedly saw a "shiny object" shaped like a "leather shoe" while on the Moon's surface.

STRANGE LIGHTS OR SIMPLY FISHING BOATS?

During a 2005 spacewalk outside the International Space Station, Leroy Chiao reported seeing lights in a formation resembling an upside-down check mark. These lights were later identified as coming from fishing boats on Earth.

THE ALIEN SNAKE

Story Musgrave reportedly saw a long, white, snake-like or eel-like object in space. Musgrave himself indicated it was likely a lost piece of equipment from the space shuttle.

END OF UNUSUAL SIGHTINGS

REPORTS OF STRANGE SOUNDS AND PRESENCES

DISEMBODIED VOICE & SCRATCHING SOUNDS OUTSIDE OF SPACECRAFT

One account details an astronaut hearing a voice and scratching sounds from outside their spacecraft.

OLEG HEARS STRANGE SOUNDS

A YouTube video claims that former ISS crew member Oleg Krylov revealed an encounter with a mysterious presence and strange sounds on the ISS.

HOLLOW MOON THEORY - THE MOON RINGS LIKE A BELL

This "ringing like a bell" phenomenon, along with other unusual observations, led to the hollow moon theory, the idea that the moon might be hollow. However, scientific studies have shown that the moon's structure is not hollow, according to Popular Science. Ancient alien enthusiasts suggest that the moon is hollow. It is suggested that the moon is an extraterrestrial artificial satellite, that was placed in orbit around the Earth. The purpose of this artificial satellite is to observe the activities of the Earth. An extraterrestrial moon base for The Watchers.

THE SPACE KNOCKER

In a 2003 incident, China's first astronaut, Yang Liwei, reported hearing a mysterious knocking sound from outside his space capsule during his flight. He described it as sounding like "knocking an iron bucket with a wooden hammer". After returning to Earth, Yang attempted to replicate the sound for engineers, but was unsuccessful.

END OF STRANGE SOUNDS AND PRESENCES

STRANGE REPORTS

SPACE FIREFLIES

The "fireflies" seen by astronauts in space, like John Glenn, are actually small particles of ice or frost, typically from spacecraft systems, illuminated by sunlight. These particles are often the result of condensation or decomposition of materials within the spacecraft, and when they are disturbed, they appear as glowing, moving dots. For example, Glenn's "fireflies" were later identified as tiny ice crystals from the altitude control rockets.

SEEING ANGELS IN SPACE

In July 1984, cosmonauts aboard the Salyut 7 space station reported seeing celestial beings of light floating outside the station. Multiple crew members, including those who arrived later, reported similar sightings. These reports have been attributed to long-term stress and potential physiological effects of space travel, but the second sighting, shortly after a new crew arrived, presents a more challenging explanation.

UFOS ON THE OTHER SIDE OF THE CRATER

Reports circulating online claim that Neil Armstrong, during the Apollo 11 mission, saw UFOs on the other side of a crater on the moon. These reports suggest Armstrong relayed this information to ground control, and even claimed the ships were "far superior" to Earth's spacecraft. However, it's important to note that NASA and other credible sources deny any such encounter occurred during the Apollo 11 mission. Some sources suggest a hoax claiming Armstrong saw UFOs was perpetuated by science fiction writer Otto Binder. While some astronauts have reported seeing unidentified objects in space, these sightings have not been definitively confirmed as evidence of extraterrestrial life.

END OF STRANGE REPORTS

So, there you have it. I truly believe there is something very strange going on in space and NASA is keeping it under wraps. When the Air Force closed Project Bluebook and said they were not interested in investigating UFOs, I knew this was a government lie, because I learned in 1981, the US Army Military Intelligence was actively investigating the UFO phenomena. I believe there are artificial structures on the moon and Mars, but NASA and other government agencies wish to explain it as a trick of light and shadow. One day the real truth will come out, but unfortunately that time is not now.

Phantom Warriors of Appenzell Innerrhoden

Paul Dale Roberts, HPI's Esoteric Detective

Halo Paranormal Investigations

During my time in the Army, the only place I went to in Switzerland is Lake Constance. How I wanted to visit other areas of Switzerland that resonates with terrestrial beauty, along with ancient history and tales of hauntings. That place would be Appenzell Innerrhoden. Appenzell Innerrhoden was part of the historical canton of Appenzell, which was divided into Appenzell Ausserrhoden (Protestant) and Appenzell Innerrhoden (Catholic). This occurred in 1597, as a result of the Swiss Reformation. Of course, there would be tensions between the people of these two religions. Appenzell Innerrhoden was formed from areas that chose to remain Roman Catholic. There are many sightings of phantom warriors from the Battle of Vögelinsegg.

The Battle was fought on May 15, 1403, as part of the Appenzell Wars, about 600 horsemen and many of the 5000 infantry of the League army were killed by the Appenzell forces. Locals and tourists have heard disembodied screaming and yelling, only to find nothing at where the screaming and yelling was heard. Even though the Appenzell forces had only a few casualties, the residual energy from these two fronts continues on to the present day. Olivia Kaufmann who has visited the site several times, has seen phantom warriors on their horses walking on the land, only to fade away into nothingness. Olivia has heard the sounds of ghostly galloping horses, only to investigate the area where she heard the galloping horses and to find nothing, no horses. History says that the battle was fought between the Appenzell forces, allied with the Canton of Schwyz, and the army of the Abbot of St. Gall and his allies from the Swabian League. The Appenzell victory led to them gaining greater autonomy and associating with the Old Swiss Confederacy.

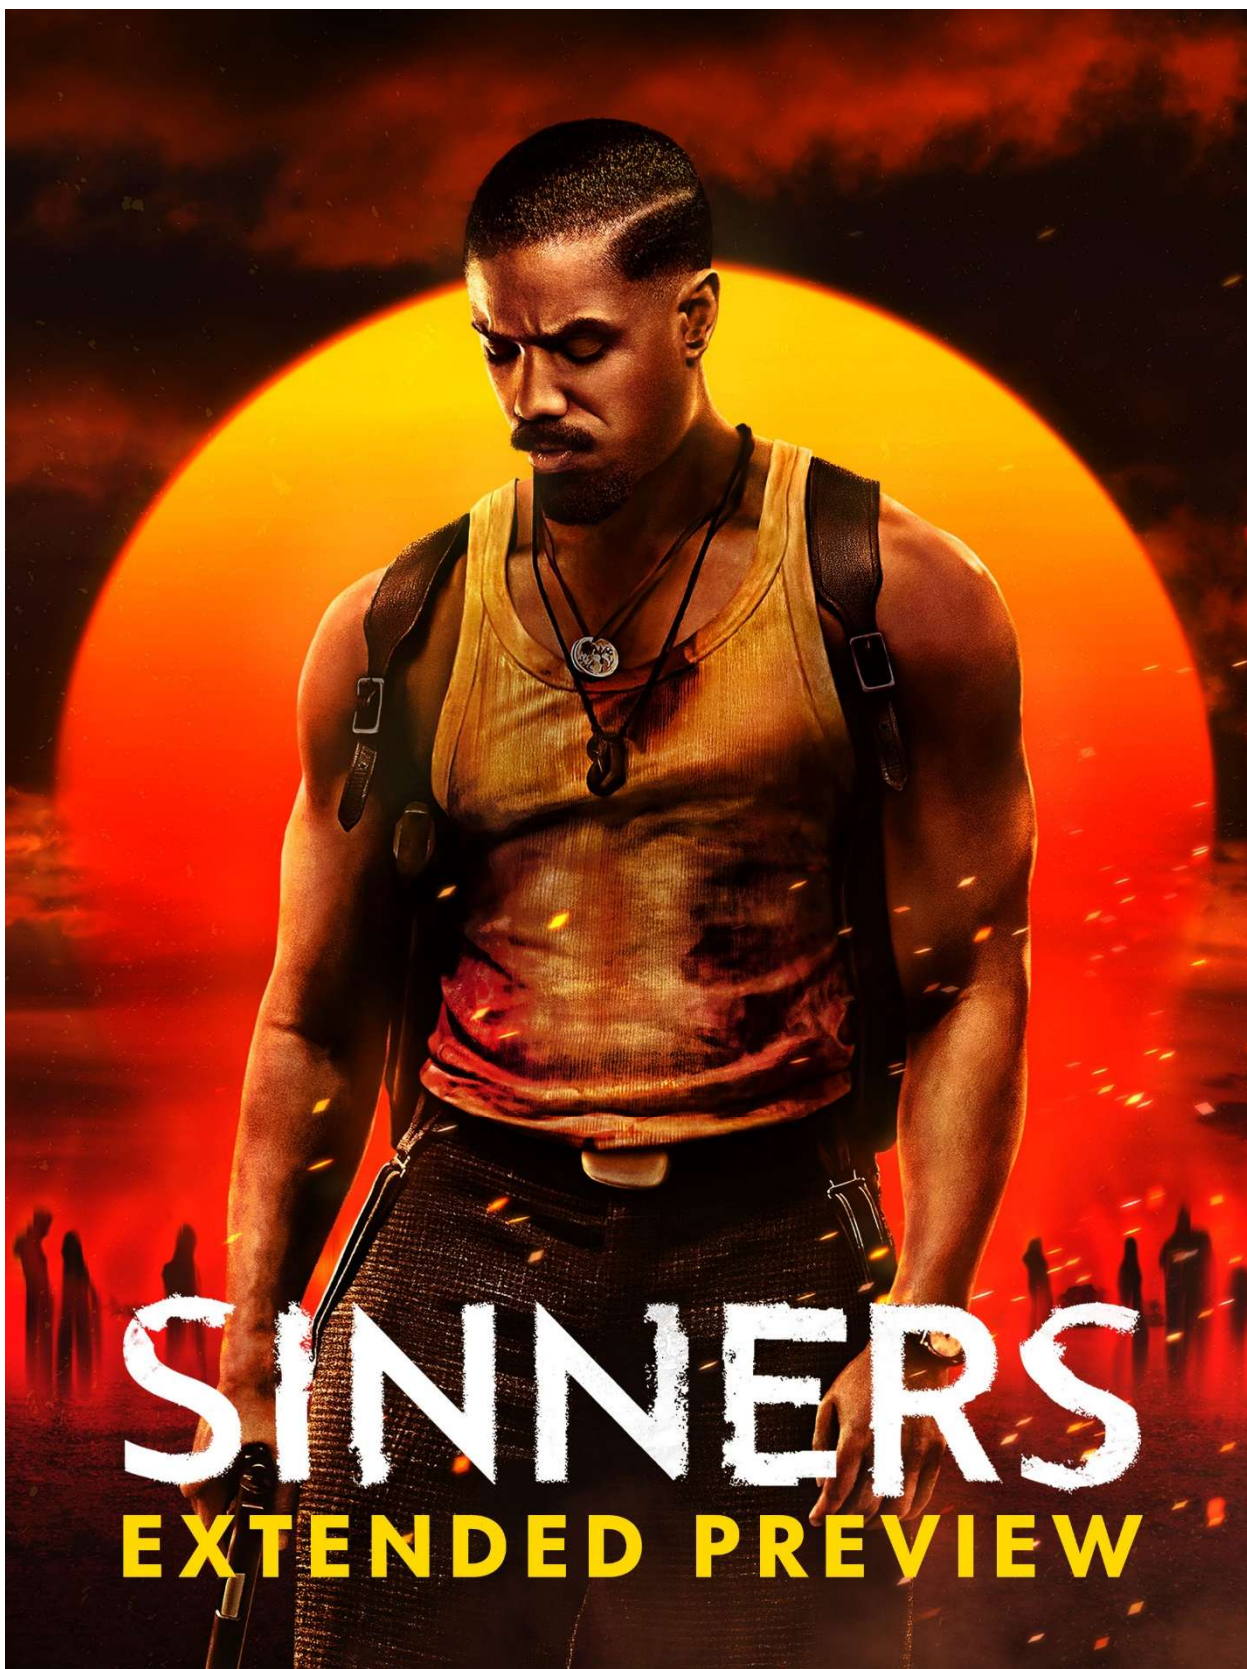

Gabriel Gerber and his girlfriend Lia Bucher were hiking in the area and felt heavy dizziness and had to sit down. After 10 minutes of sitting down, they were approached by 3 men in flashy colorful costumes. Lia says there were slashes, cuts in the garments that they were wearing. One soldier was holding a flag, while another was beating on a drum. One of the soldiers had feathers in his hat. The 3 men stood out, because of the bright colors to their uniforms. As the three men walked past Gabriel and Lia, they seemed to fade out of view and in the distance, they could see what appeared to be a battle. The battle scene lasted only for a minute and it faded away. The battle on this land has left a strong imprint into the atmosphere that will replay itself over and over again.

The locals in the area describe supernatural events such as unexplained sounds, movements, or visual apparitions. These are often attributed to "unfortunate souls" of deceased individuals that may have participated in the Battle of Vogelinsegg. There are also stories of there being a "dark side" to Appenzell. The land sometimes brings palpable loneliness and melancholia that lingers heavy over the landscape during certain times in the day and into the night. Christen Matteo while fishing was overwhelmed with sadness and depression. Something kept telling him to jump into the water. He never had this feeling before, the sadness was too much for Christen. Christen packed up his fishing gear and walked away from the site as fast as he could. The further away he got from the lake's edge, the better he felt. Christen has vowed never to go fishing in that area again. Christen feels he could have lost his life if he had walked into the water.

The beauty of Appenzell Innerrhoden is magical, but one has to be careful when treading on this ancient land. I feel that Appenzell Innerrhoden has many dark secrets.

A Sacramento Demon Case & Haunted Tatra Mountains, Poland

Paul Dale Roberts, HPI's Esoteric Detective

Halo Paranormal Investigations

SACRAMENTO HAUNTING

Date of Investigation: 6/16/2025

Clients: Luis S & his wife Ana S.

Location: Downtown Sacramento

Ana S. contacted me 3 days ago and told me that she has an attachment. For the last 3 months, she has heard a strange banging on her wall. Her husband Luis S. has felt a burning sensation on his back and found a red mark on the lower part of his back. Ana S. said it all started when they went back to Portugal to see their family. Ana S. niece was playing with the Baralho Doppel - Demônios Da Goétia. This card deck functions as a traditional playing card deck and a competitive game. It features illustrations of demons from the Goetia (type of European sorcery). Ana S. niece while playing this card game with friends was calling up the Portuguese Cucuy Demon. The Cucuy Demon is known in Portugal and Spain. Ana S. heard her niece yelling in her sleep Cucuy, Cucuy and then she was yelling 3 times..."I'm sorry". The next morning, Ana S. niece was saying she was confronted by a demon that called himself the Cucuy. Ana S. believes the Cucuy demon followed them to their Sacramento home from Portugal. Wish Fire, Psychic Medium felt a dark presence in the home. Wish Fire pointed out a closet and said the demon was hiding in the closet. I did an EVP session by the closet and captured a growling noise. That was the only evidence I was able to obtain. I conducted a Roman Catholic blessing of the house and gave Luis S. & his wife Ana S. an aspersion baptism. Wish Fire performed a smudging of the house and on the clients. Ana S. told me that they confiscated the cards from the niece and burned them while in Portugal. We will keep in close contact with the family and make sure that the cleansing and baptism worked. CASE PENDING.

HAUNTED TATRA MOUNTAINS, POLAND

I have always been fascinated with the Tatra Mountains in Poland. No, I never been there, nor have I been to Poland. I became fascinated with the Tatra Mountains, when my stepmother Cindy was showing me her Tatra Mountains hiking pictures. The Tatra Mountains is rich in folklore and legends that include supernatural elements. Many tales involve mythical beings, ghostly figures, and strange occurrences, particularly in areas like Czerwone Wierchy and near Zakopane. The "Brocken Specter," a rare atmospheric phenomenon, is also associated with a dark legend in the Tatras. Cindy made friends with Krystyna (Kris) Wozniak and her husband Casimir (Kas) Wozniak. Kris and Kas lived in Poland all their lives and heard the stories of mythical creatures living in the mountains. Kas grandfather while fishing saw the Morskie Oko Lake Monster swimming about. The Lake Monster was about 35 feet in length. Kris also told Cindy that people wind up missing and some locals blame the werewolves that live in the Tatra Mountains.

HAUNTED AREAS

The Czerwone Wierchy massif is said to be haunted, and there are tales of a haunted forest near Czarna Góra. The Czerwone Wierchy, or Red Peaks, is a massif of four grassy and domed peaks in the Western Tatra Mountains, located on the border between Poland and Slovakia. Cindy heard many stories of full body apparitions seen wearing medieval outfits wandering around the Red Peaks. Reports of paranormal activity and legends surround a forest in Czarna Góra, near Trybsz. People who visit this forest have reportedly experienced strange feelings. Kris saw branches from the trees moving on their own accord. Kris felt there was an invisible entity following her. Tree branches would shake as she

THE BROCKEN SPECTER & WITCH HOUSE

The Brocken Specter is the eerie atmospheric phenomenon, where a person's shadow is cast onto clouds, it is said to carry a dark prophecy of death in the mountains. There are also stories of haunted houses, like the "Witch House," and legends of families who hid treasures guarded by evil spirits. The "Witch House" in the Tatra Mountains is a fairytale-like wooden cottage located in Poland. Visitors have claimed to have seen apparitions walking inside and outside of this house. Kris says the ghosts are harmless entities.

MURDER ON THE HIKING TRAIL?

A local named Zaruski says that when he was hiking on the bald clearing, he came across a woman passed out on the trail. The date was August 1925. Her family was found dead near the trail, and it was suspected that the woman had poisoned her family with spiked brandy at their family picnic. The murder of the woman's family remained unsolved.

THE MYTHS OF TATRA MOUNTAINS

Cindy says there are many mythical creatures said to haunt this mountain. Here is a list of them:

King of Snakes: A giant, rainbow-colored snake with a crown, said to have plundered villages and kidnapped women. Defeated by the hero Perłowicz.

Morskie Oko Lake Monster: A monstrous fish with a ram's head and a giant diamond between its eyes, believed to inhabit the lake Morskie Oko. Some speculate this legend might be based on sightings of otters.

Golden-egg laying duck: A unique duck in a pond beneath Pisana Rock that lays a golden egg every year. No one has ever reached this pond.

Łanietnik: A daemon with control over rain, hail, and general weather. They can be malicious or friendly depending on their relationship with humans.

Dziwożony: Malevolent female daemons known for kidnapping babies and women, as well as stealing goods and sucking milk from farm animals. They are said to be afraid of bellflowers.

The Monk: An apparition described as a monk in white robes and a hood, seen in the mist hovering over valleys and lakes, often before floods. This legend may be related to the optical illusion called the Brocken Specter.

Werewolves: Humans transformed into part-wolf, part-human creatures, often as punishment for crimes. They are said to attack humans and animals. A werewolf that is terrifying for the locals is called "Teeth Grinder". It is said that you can hear the werewolf's teeth grind from far away. The sound gets closer and closer and when that happens you need to run as fast as you can to safety, or the Teeth Grinder will get you!

Czarna Góra near Trybsz: A haunted forest where visitors report disorientation, lost time, and an eerie silence. Some locals believe there is a portal at this location. There have also been sightings of UFOs near this area.

Trail to Kasprowy Wierch: There are reports of a yeti-like humanoid appearing on this trail. The creature is known as "Owłosiona Bestia" which means "hairy beast".

Kominiarski Wierch Peak: Also said to be haunted. Light beings have been seen at this peak. Locals believe that the light beings could be extraterrestrial or powerful ghosts.

Haunted Tioram Castle in Scotland

Paul Dale Roberts, HPI's Esoteric Detective
Halo Paranormal Investigations

Tioram Castle is a gorgeous picturesque castle in Scotland. The castle was a principal stronghold of Clan Ruaidhrí. The castle sits upon an island called Eilean Tioram. The island was first recorded in a charter of Cairistíona Nic Ruaidhrí, daughter of Ailéan mac Ruaidhrí. The castle was erected by Ailéan's granddaughter, Áine Nic Ruaidhrí. For centuries the castle served as the seat for all of Clan Raghnaill descendants. With the history of this castle comes tales of the supernatural. In the 17th Century, there were sightings of Kelpies (water elementals). In 2020, a tourist named Davina Bruce was at the edge-of-the-water and could see at a distance Tioram Castle. From out of the water and for a moment on the island, she described seeing a very handsome man, that gestured Davina to join him in the water. Then when Davina looked back, he was gone. Davina believes she saw a shape-shifting Kelpie that was trying to lure her into the water.

LADY JEAN

A former resident named Lady Jean haunts the castle. Lady Jean is seen every Halloween. Locals have said that she sings a sad song from the castle's tower. Some locals have seen Lady Jean weeping at the bottom of the tower. Other spirits reflect upon the time that Tioram Castle was the traditional seat of the Clan Ranald aka Clan Raghnaill branch of Clan Donald. Visitors of the castle have seen the residual energy of Scottish soldiers taking control of the castle. Historical records say that the castle was captured by government forces in and around 1692, when the clan chief Allan Macdonald of Clan Ranald joined the Jacobite Court in France, despite having sworn allegiance to William III of England (II of Scotland) and Mary II of England (and Scotland). A military unit was transferred to the castle during the Jacobite rising of 1715. Parts of the castle was torched. Blair Stewart, a visitor of the castle claimed to have seen a ghostly image of a man on fire and jumping from the tower. This may be a residual haunting from the Jacobite rising. The castle was torched to keep it out of the hands of the Hanoverian forces.

THE BLACK FROG

According to a Scottish folklore blog, the legend of the black frog involves John of Moidart, who was known for his cruelty. It is said that a black frog, believed to be a manifestation of evil, followed him and even saved his crew from a storm. Some say it disappeared with a loud "crackling noise" after John's death.

THE CASTLE AND JOHN OF MOIDART

John of Moidart returned to Castle Tioram. He was able to reach the castle during low tide when the ground is dry. The castle has massive walls that face the sea. The walls have no windows. In 1547 Scotland assembled the clans, including Clan Huntly, to do battle with England. Clan Ranald did not support Scotland. From the Scottish point of view, they were traitors. From a Clan Donald point of view, they felt no loyalty to the Saxon Scottish government who granted Clan Ranald portions of their own lands only on condition they pay rent. Clan Ranald and specifically John of Moidart actually benefited from Scotland's defeat. The Scottish government recalled the warrants against John on condition he stop raiding his neighbor clans. Legend has it that John of Moidart was brutal with his captives and that is why people have heard disembodied screams coming from the castle.

Some of the methods that John of Moidart used were the Boot. That is a device in which the torturers place the victim's leg in a metal sheath and drive wooden wedges down the inside, slowly crushing and breaking the leg. This was used in high-profile cases. It is rumored that John of Moidart may have used it for low-profile cases. Then there was the Pillywinks aka thumbscrews. Similar to the Boot, these devices crushed the thumbs or fingers by tightening a vice-like mechanism. Other ways to torture the captives were beatings, impalement of hands using daggers and nails and in extreme cases, drawing and quartering, or back breaking on the wheel. John of Moidart was not shy in using various torture devices. Tourists Caitriona Anderson and Callan Campbell have heard the screams coming from the castle. Caitriona believes the past replays itself in that castle. Some locals also believe that there is a curse on the castle and at one time it was haunted by a Baobhan Sith (a beautiful female vampire) that lured hunters to their deaths by draining their blood.

Is "Ghost Adventures" TV Show Cursed?

By Paul Dale Roberts, Fortean Investigator

ZAK WITH MY WIFE DEANNA JAXINE STINSON – INVESTIGATING A HOME IN OAKDALE, CA

Sometimes I think "Ghost Adventures" should be called "Demonic Adventures". It would seem that Zak Bagans is obsessed with demons. I have been on many demonic cases and I have been successful in clearing out many demonic entities. After an investigation, I conduct a Roman Catholic house blessing and if the occupant has an attachment, I will perform a full submersion baptism to get rid of the demonic attachment. A full submersion baptism is a basic form of exorcism. An attachment will immediately leave after a baptism. I have a 95% success rate with my cleansings and baptisms. The 5% cases where I am not successful, is because the occupant goes back to playing with Ouija Boards or whatnot and brings back the demon. I have been involved with a few Ghost Adventures shows and so I am familiar with working with Zak and his crew. Looking over some of his other episodes, I can see where Zak may now have an attachment. Zak needs to have a full submersion baptism. His attachment has bled over to the show. I truly believe the show is cursed. There are too many negatives coming out of the show, than there are positives. The only positive that I see is that they have a huge fan base and the show is comical and entertaining. As for the negatives, there are many. Let's take a look at the negatives, none of these are in order.

1. The Mark & Debby Constantino Murder Suicide.
2. Aaron Goodwin's Wife involved with Murder-for-Hire.

3. Jillian Lauren Shriner donates serial killer Samuel Little items to Zak's Haunted Museum. Jillian is involved with the attempted murder of LAPD officers.
4. Rumors abound that Zak had other paranormal shows canceled.
5. Rumors that the Ghost Adventures crew fakes evidence.
6. Rumors say that Zak is afraid to fly in airplanes, which limits the show in places to investigate.
7. Rumors say that Zak is a narcissist and enjoys bullying his clients and staff.
8. There are accusations of fakery and exaggeration on the Ghost Adventures episodes.
9. The infamous feud between Zak and Nick Groff.
10. The Holly Madison cheating allegations.
11. The Zak "Mafia-esque" atmosphere in the paranormal industry, as Zak flexes his power to control the field.

If the show is truly cursed, there will be more negatives coming. It will only get worse.

Haunted Reunion Island
Paul Dale Roberts, HPI's Esoteric Detective
Halo Paranormal Investigations
jazmaonline.boards.net/

My uncle Jose Causing, a former Merchant Marine has many stories about his adventures on the open sea. One of the stories I enjoyed, was about his stop at Reunion Island to drop off supplies and to pick up vanilla bean, sugar and rum. During his stop at Reunion Island, he learned of the many esoteric legends that originate from this island. You are probably wondering where Reunion Island is on a global map. Reunion Island is located in the Indian Ocean, east of Madagascar and southwest of Mauritius. It is part of the Mascarene Islands and is an overseas region and department of France. A bit of history about this island. The French colonists developed a plantation economy founded on the cultivation of coffee and sugar by use of slave labor. Locals have made claim that on some full moon nights, they see the ghostly outlines of slaves working in the fields. From the 17th to the 19th centuries, the French brought over workers with various nationalities, such as Africans, Chinese, and Indians, which now you can see in the ethnic diversity of the island's population. From 1690, most of the non-Europeans on the island were enslaved. At one time there were 80,000 slaves imported to this island. The history of slavery on the island is believed to be a factor in the prevalence of ghost stories and supernatural beliefs.

Grand-Mere Kalle the Witch

Jose says that one of their most important legends is the story of Grand-Mère Kalle. The Grand-Mere Kalle is a witch-like figure with multiple versions of her story, including tales of her haunting the volcano or appearing as a bird to warn people of danger. At times she is malevolent and other times she is benevolent. The Grand-Mere Kalle lives near the Piton de la Fournaise volcano with her husband. Locals believe that her husband is a devil or demon. In the Creole culture she is known as "granmer Kal". One common story tells of a cruel slave owner who was poisoned by her slaves, transforming into a bird whose squawking, signals danger. Another version portrays her as a grieving mother who throws herself into the sea after her son disappears. Legend has it, if you hear her screaming or crying, this is a warning that a ship in the water is in extreme danger.

Haunted Trails

The locals have reported strange phenomena on trails within the island. Locals will hear disembodied footsteps on the trails and there is no one behind them. At abandoned buildings, they will hear the moaning of spirits and unsettling creaking noises in these abandoned buildings. Some locals have been touched, grabbed and even pushed. The locals also sometimes experience being attacked by mosquitos when they see an apparition along the trail.

Devilish Siren

Jose says that some of the men of the island claim that when they go swimming in the ocean, they will see a beautiful woman trying to entice them to come closer. They swim closer to the woman, and she will vanish beneath the waves. Then looking around you will find yourself surrounded by bull sharks. Now your life is in danger. The locals believe the beautiful woman is some kind of lethal siren, trying to lure male swimmers to their deaths. At times the siren will lure a man to an area of the water where they are stung by stonefish.

The Ghost of Madam Marie Anne Desbassyns

The Maison de Villele Musee Historique is said to be haunted by the spirit of Madam Marie Anne Desbassyns, a 17th-century plantation owner who, according to the caretaker, occasionally returns to the family chapel. The caretaker of the museum has claimed to hear footsteps in the chapel associated with the museum, even when no one is present. This suggests a belief among some locals that the former plantation owner occasionally visits the estate after her death.

Strange Rituals

According to the Los Angeles Times: "There are stories of sorcerers who practice witchcraft and cast spells, including placing offerings on roads to influence people's fates." To read more about the high strangeness of this island, check out "Island of Ghosts: Uncovering the Haunting Secrets of Reunion Island" by Jean-Gael Reboul.

NEXT PHOTO: MIKEY 17. Richard Vasseur recommended this movie. I watched it and was impressed. Great storyline, very original.
